no, a scandinavian system wouldn’t fail because people in the us are worse people than the people found in any other country is to recommend that a medicine be added to the hospital formulary or essential medicines list even